Dearest Mike and Steve,
You left us so quick, you left us so fast. I don't think any of us know your lives would not last.
While I try to write this I hold back my tears. You both were so full of Life, I thought you had so many more years.
Who would have figured you would suddenly be gone. Two people so innocent, you did nothing wrong.
Your families will cry and so will your friends. We all Love you externally alot and we are all sorry it is the end. We will miss you alot and promise you will never be forgot.
There are so many emotions involved yet this problem will never be solved.
The rain is falling down today and I guess that we will all have to say Goodbye to the two of you Good-bye.
Through all angered tears and through our severe frustrations. I can only say good-bye, but we can never let go.

PRINCIPAL ROSA'S GRADUATION REMARKS

Superintendent Barbarisi, Members of the School Committee, Members of the Faculty, Parents, Relatives and Friends of the graduates, and most importantly, Graduates of the Class of 1986.

Shortly, upon receipt of their diplomas, the 186 young men and women seated before us will reach a unique point in their lives. Receiving a diploma completes a twelve year journey which has provided these graduates with a wide variety of educational and social experiences. However, receiving a diploma signifies the beginning of another journey; one that will not be as comfortable as the previous trip. Because of their entrance into young adulthood, these graduates will be asked to assume more responsibility, and make more demanding choices.

Graduates, for the past twelve years, your parents and teachers have provided you the foundation to make intelligent choices. Now that you are leaving the comfortable confines of high school, you must apply what you have learned, because many of the choices you must now make will have far reaching implications.

George Moore, a noted Irish novelist wrote, "the difficulties in life is the choice". Sometimes, the consequences resulting from poor choice can be even more difficult. Therefore, examine closely those decisions which could have a lasting impact on your life. Hopefully, by doing this, you will make choices that produce happiness and success.

I'd like to close by congratulating the parents of the graduates for providing them with support and encouragement during the past twelve years. And to the graduates I give my fondest wishes for success and hope you will always have pleasant memories of Mansfield High School.

Thank you.

SALUTATORY

Laura Jean Cassidy

Members of the school committee, administrators, faculty, family, and friends, it is with great pleasure that we welcome you to today's commencement, and offer our thanks for the hopes and dreams you've shared and helped us to attain in the past years. Through your guidance and supervision, we have experienced a small portion of society, and I believe today marks the day that we, the class of 1986, begin to experience the world.

For twelve years we have benefitted from the strictly regimented lifestyle necessary for our basic emotional growth, but now it is time to move on. We must spread our wings and soar with the wind. We must formulate our ideals, set our own goals, and find our true selves. Such things can never be achieved if we allow ourselves to be sheltered or continue to conform. The English philosopher, Francis Bacon, stated back in tht 16th century, "Men commonly think according to thier inclinations, speak according to their learning and imbibed opinions, but generally act according to custom." Unfortunately, Bacon's words still hold true.

Our world continually accepts tradition as the rule for life. Man tends to be intimidated by these actions and therefore suppresses his own beliefs so as not to be frowned upon by others. Society thinks that his rejection of popular standards is a rejection of ALL standards, rather than a display of creative insight. Great men, namely Plato and Socrates, were maligned in their lifetime because of their disregard for books and tradition. They spoke not what men, but rather what they thought. It is only the courageous who are able to speak their mind, therefore I believe they should be praised, not ridiculed. Fortunately, in time, society is apt to change its opinion of the man with the voice but it may be a long time in coming.

I encourage you, the class of 1986, to be true to your feelings, voice your opinions and be tolerant of others. Bring light to your fresh ideas and let their creator be known. In the word of Ralph Waldo Emerson, "Insist on yourself; never imitate. Your own gift you can present every moment with the cumulative force of a whole life's cultivation, but of the adopted talent of another you have only an extemporaneouss half possession."

A close relation once shared the following words with me, and so, in parting, I would like to share them with you,

Take pride in your ideas and the uniqueness that sets you apart...

Hold in your heart warm memories and beautiful dreams...

Speak openly and listen thoughtfully...

Give freely
and care deeply...

Explore your world
and fulfill yourself.

VALEDICTORY

Julie Anne Lindquist

Members of the school committee, Mr. Barbarisi, Mr. Rosa, Mr. Kelley, faculty members, parents, friends, and relatives, it is with great honor that I welcome you here today and extend my sincerest thanks for all you've done to make this day possible. I would like now to talk to my fellow classmates, the graduating class of 1986, about the major step in our lives that we all are about to take—the step from our sheltered way of life to a life of independence, initialed by our newly-attained freedom. I would also like to speak of the specialness in each one of us that will help make our individual success possible.

The success I'm speaking of is the attainment of our goals and dreams. Each of us has entertained ideas about what we want to do from this point, and the goals we set will represent the stages we go through in reaching our dreams. The setting and achieving of these goals are what fill us with a sense of purpose and accomplishment; they are what we work towards and where we find satisfaction. We don't know where or when these goals and dreams will be reached, and therefore must keep striving until they are reached. We must also keep setting new ones upon the completion of others. The important thing about these goals and dreams is that we want them and they make us happy. Inside each and every one of us is someone special, and because of this we can all be happy and can all be a success whether it be at college, in the military, in beginning a steady job, or in starting a family at the completion of high school.

Undoubtedly, we will encounter problems and difficulties in our lives, but once we overcome these struggles, we emerge with a new understanding, a new awareness, and a new strength. Each time we are faced with these inevitable difficulties, we will become somewhat discouraged, and temporarily lose sight of better things yet to come, but we must keep hope for these are only bridges of growth that everyone experiences at one time or another. It is as if we must go through the pain and struggle in order to grow, mature, and reach new heights. The future to us may seem vast, but we need not be frightened by this thought, we need only to take each day as it comes. In learning from the mistakes of yesterday, we become better equipped to face the trials of tomorrow. Each of us has the power, the ability, the knowledge, and the specialness to overcome any difficulties and to make things better.

In striving toward our dreams, we need to believe in work, learning, and achieving as a way of reaching our goals and being successful. We must also believe in ourselves. We will be learning and discovering more and more about ourselves as we leave the familiar faces of our friends and family, and even the faculty who are all people who have been there at one tme or another to comfort and shelter us in times of need and now as we leave this environment, we must search onto our own personality in order to develop those qualities that will help in finding our own success.

As we enter into this world so new to us we must remember to appreciate life by making the best of every day and by finding and enjoying the beauty in the world for it is there. In enthusiastically going after what we want in life, we will avoid discouraging ourselves over what could have been. We musn't be afraid of making mistakes on our pursuit of success, rather we must look at these mistakes as learning experiences for failure is just as much a part of our lives as is success, and as maturing individuals we must accept these failures and mistakes and continue trying. We will feel a sense of accomplishment for simply having tried and putting forth our best effort. The dreams that we continually push toward can and will eventually become realities and in going after these dreams we find enjoyment and meaning in them for they are always present as something to work toward.

We all undoubtedly are experiencing mixed feelings of happiness and sadness, anticipation and fear, on this important day in our lives. The good times that we've shared are all memories that will stay with us forever. The guidance and education that we have received up to this point will serve as our preparation for what is to come. Today we are standing on the threshold of a new, exciting life filled with opportunity. Finally, the different ways we choose to deal with this freedom and go on from this point represents the uniqueness in each one of us. As we leave here today as a senoir class, let's remember to look for the love and beauty in the world, to acknowledge the specialness in each one of us, and to be the best that we can be.

Poem To The Seniors
To The Graduating Class Of 1986

The world has opened it's arms to you, and now you must enter them with all the confidence and determination with which you have passed the last four years.

But before you begin to stride ahead,
glance behind.
For here we are cheering you on,
And remembering the times we've spent together,
Hoping that you'll remember them too.

So, because of our memories,
and because of our hopes-
That wish you the best in all that you do;
We now take this moment
to honor your class,
And to dedicate this prom to you.

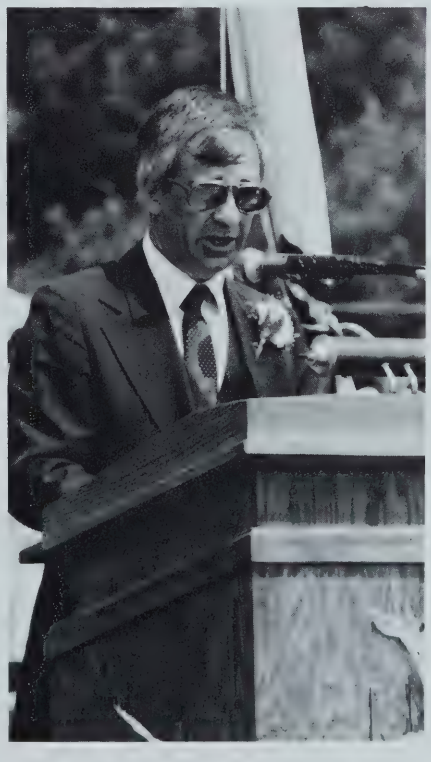
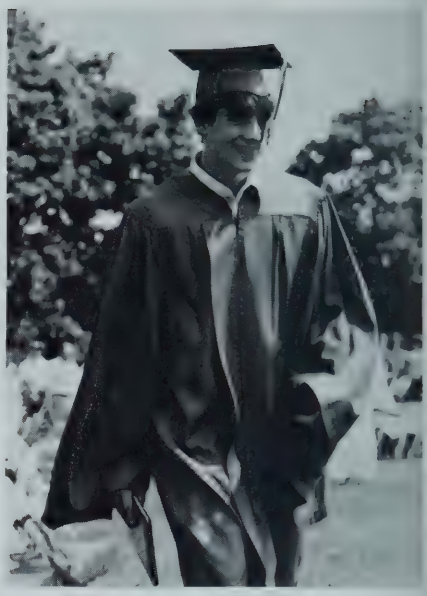
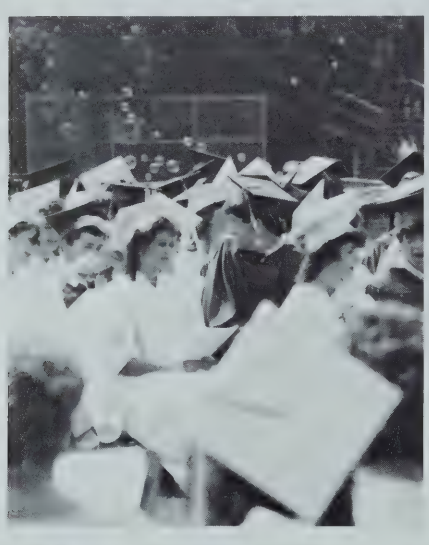
GRADUATION 1986







Class Song '86

"A BETTER PLACE TO BE"

David Mueller

Our lives are just beginning,
The time is at our side.
The future is before us,
And we'll enter it with pride.
To try and make our place, somehow,
And struggle with our dreams;
To try and shape our lives, so they become reality

But I know somehow I will attain
The dreams I know;
And try to make the world a better place for us to be
Yes, I feel it now; with every
Day our love will grow
And lead us to a brighter day

My friends, I will remember you,
The good times that we've shared;
The love you placed before us,
And the many ways you've cared
And just because we're parting now
Our own separate way,
Doesn't mean the love we shared
Will have to end today

But I know somehow I will attain
The dreams I know;
And try to make the world a better place for us to be
Yes, I feel it now; with every
Day our love will grow
And lead us to a brighter day

"YOU CAN'T GET THERE FROM HERE."

"You'll be sorry."
"Never happen."
"Why bother?"
"Be cool."
"Play it safe."
"It'll never work."
"Leave well enough alone."

Conventional wisdom. Sometimes, it seems, all that is heard is a discouraging word.

But as a high school graduate, you have some unconventional opportunities coming up.

Why not shoot for the moon?

The people of The Foxboro Company hope you make it.

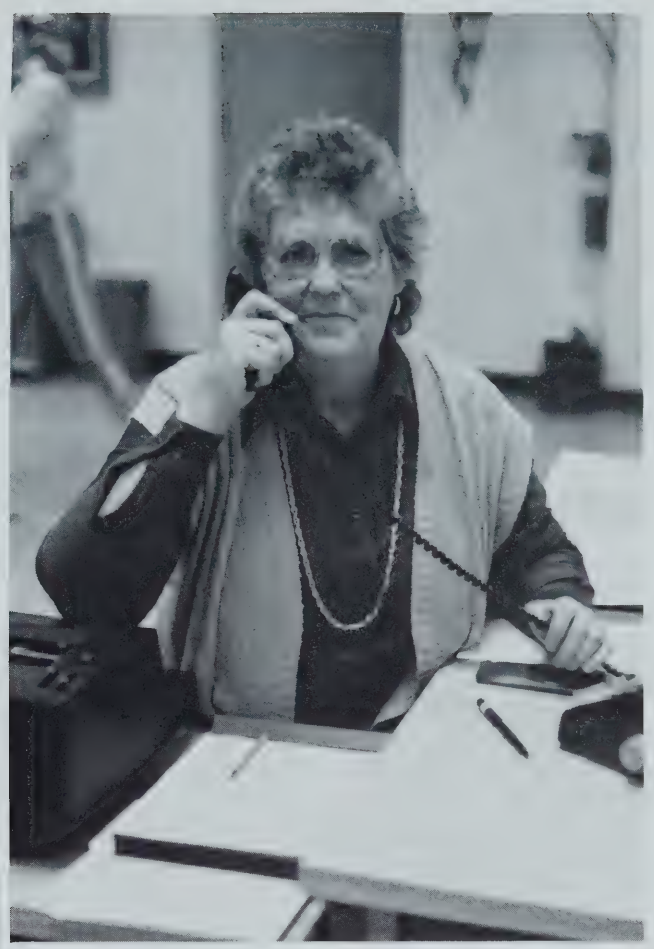
MRS. JEAN VAZ

Thank you for making the years you have been at MHS great ones.
Your warmth and friendliness will never be forgotten.



Mrs. Vaz's favorite poem
HIGH FLIGHT
Oh, I have slipped the surly bonds of earth
And danced the skies on laughter-silvered wings;
Sunward I've climbed, and joined the tumbling mirth
Of sun-split clouds... and done a hundred things
You have not dreamed of... wheeled and soared and swung
High in the sunlit silence. Hov'ring
there,
I've chased the shouting wind along, and flung
My eager craft through footless halls of air.
Up, up the long, delirious, burning blue
I've topped the windswept heights with easy grace
Where never lark, or even eagle flew.
And, while with silent, lifting mind I've trod
The high untrespassed sanctity of space,
Put out my hand, and touched the face of God.

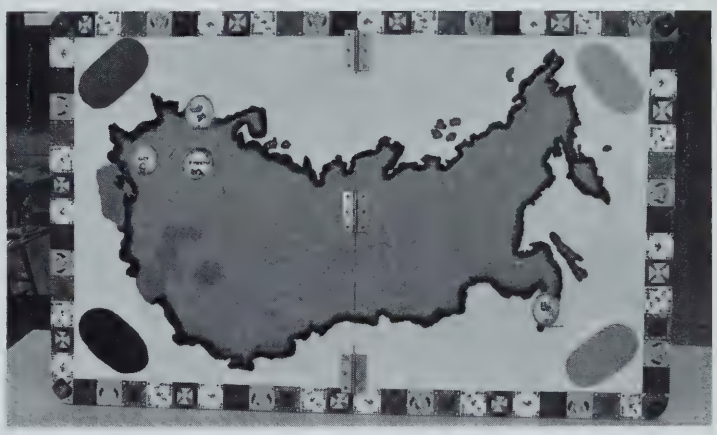
SOPHOMORES IN RUSSIAN DAY AT HARVARD

Three Mansfield High School sophomores participated in a Russian Day for secondary school students held at Harvard University on Saturday, May 17. Jennifer Byron, Courtney Dillon, and Jeanine McLean were invited to watch various presentations about the Soviet Union, and they had the opportunity to play a game about Russia that they developed.

The day began with a dramatization of poetry and plays by Aleksandr Chirkov, a Soviet actor from Leningrad who now teaches at Boston College. Jennifer, Courtney and Jeanine as well as students from Beverly, Cambridge, Holliston, Lexington, Newton, Stoneham, and Stoughton then had a choice of activities. Students could watch a video of Soviet life, see travel slides, or play the game that the Mansfield Sophomores created.

The students enjoyed a Russian lunch of borscht, dark bread, cheese, and cucumbers, and the day concluded with a concert of Russian music, old and new.

The Mansfield students were accompanied by their English teacher, Mary Beth Maitoza. Mrs. Maitoza will present a curriculum project at Harvard this summer, and has been asked to bring the students' game back, to share with Massachusetts teachers attending a summer seminar in Cambridge.



BROWN UNIVERSITY BOOK AWARD

Miss Wednesday McMillan, a Mansfield High School junior, was the recipient of the Brown University Book Award in a brief ceremony at the High School library held 5 June. Sponsored by the Associated Alumni of Brown University, the award is presented to that junior "who best combines a high degree of ability in English expression both written and spoken with those outstanding personal qualities which, in the words of the Brown Charter of 1764, give promise that the student become one of the succession of men and women duly qualified for discharging the offices of life with usefulness and reputation." Selected by the High School English Department to receive the award, Miss McMillan is an outstanding student and a member of the National Honor Society. She hopes to attend either Hamilton College or Swarthmore College.

Following is a nationally broadcast statement made by President Reagen from the Oval Office of the White House Jan.28 shortly after the explosion that destroyed the space shuttle Challenger and took the lives of the seven crew members:

Ladies and gentlemen,I planned to speak to you tonight to report on the State of the Union,but the events of earlier today have led me to change those plans.Today is a day for mourning and remembering.Nancy and I are pained to the core by the tragedy of the shuttle Challenger.We know we share this pain with all of the people of our country.This is truly a national loss.

Nineteen years ago,almost to the day,we lost three astronauts in a terrible accident on the ground,but we've never lost an astronaut in flight; we've never had a tradegy like this.And perhaps we've forgotten the courage it took for the crew of the shuttle but they,the Challenger seven,were aware of the dangers and overcame them and did their jobs brilliantly.

We mourn seven heroes: Micheal Smith,Dick Scobee,Judith Resnik,Ronald McNair,Ellison Onizuka,Gregory Jarvis,and Christa McAuliffe.We mourn their loss as a nation,together.The families of the seven-we cannot bear,as you do,the full impact of this tradegy but we feel the loss and we're thinking about you so very much.Your loved ones were daring and brave and they had that special spirit that says,"Give me a challenge and I'll meet it with joy."They had a hunger to explore the universe and discover its truths.They wished to serve and they did-they served us all.

We've grown used to wonders in this century;it's hard to dazzle us.For 25 years the United States space program has been doing just that.We've grown used to the idea of space,and perhaps we forget that we've only just begun-.We're still pioneers.They,the members of the Challenger crew,were pioneers.

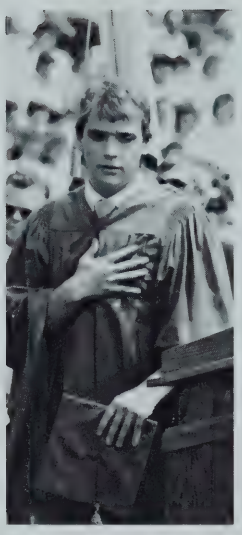
And I want to say something to the schoolchildren of America who were watching the live coverage of the shuttle's takeoff.I know it's hard to understand that sometimes painful things like this happen.It's all a part of the process of exploration and discovery.It's all part of taking a chance and expanding man's horizons.The future doesn't belong to the faint-hearted.It belongs to the brave.The Challenger crew was pulling us into the future and we'll continue to follow them.

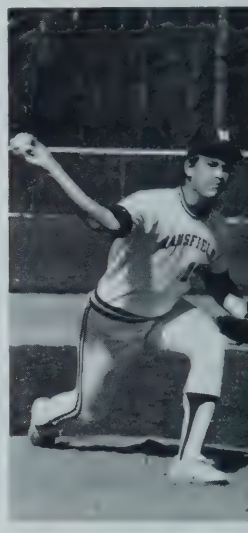
I've always had great faith in and respect for our space program,and what happened today does nothing to diminish it.We don't hide our space program,we don't keep secrets and cover things up.We do it all up front and in public.That's the way freedom is and we wouldn't change it for a minute.We'll continue our quest in space.There will be more shuttle flights and more shuttle crews and,yes,more volunteers,more civilians,more teachers in space.Nothing ends here.Our hopes and our journeys continue.

I want to add that I wish I could talk to every man and woman who works for NASA,or who worked on this mission,and tell them:"Your dedication and professionalism have moved and impressed us for decades,and we know of your anguish.We share it."

There's a coincidence today.On this day 390 years ago,the great exporer Sir Francis Drake died aboard ship off the coast of Panama.In his lifetime the great frontiers were the oceans,and a historian later said,"He lived by the sea,died on it and was buried in it."Well,today we can say of the Challenger crew,their dedication was,like Drake's complete.The crew of the space shuttle Challenger honored us by the manner in which they lived their lives.We will never forget them nor the last time we saw them this morning as they prepared for their journey and waved goodbye and "slipped the surly bonds of earth to touch the face of God."

Thank you.





OH,WHAT A YEAR!
